Summary

• SHORT SUMMARY:

I'm Steven Burda & I move mountains. One day I'll take over the world. Nothing's impossible for me.

• LONG SUMMARY:

Hello, and welcome to my LinkedIn profile page, a place I call the "Networking of Today." At the present, I am gainfully employed, working in Financial Planning, Procurement & Cost Management arena at one of the well-known and greatly respected Fortune 50 company in the Philadelphia-area. The reason I am here (for past years) is to reconnect with friends, family members, classmates, group and social circle members, former and present colleagues -- and to connect with new, exciting and interesting professionals from all walks of life, from various fields within many diverse industries and geographic locations. I love my profession, the people I work with and enjoy helping people getting the most of their lives as well - both on a professional and personal front. From time to time, I read Questions & Answers, and do contribute to them on regular basis -- because this is how we learn, develop and advance. With that, I hope you have a wonderful day, enjoy this site and the networking benefits it may offer us now or in the future. Connect to me directly, as you won't regret it. Feel free to read through 2,100+ recommendations left for me below, just in case you're skeptical in "value added" benefit in having me in your direct network. →

Experience

Financial Planning, Procurement & Cost Management

The Boeing Company

Public Company; BA; Aviation & Aerospace industry

November 2008 – Present (9 months)

I currently work in Financial Planning, Procurement and Cost Management at The Boeing Company in Ridley Park, PA (Philadelphia Site)

I love my job and the people I work with!!

Boeing Integrated Defense Systems (IDS) -- combines weapons and aircraft capabilities, intelligence and surveillance systems, communications architectures and extensive large-scale integration expertise. IDS has three capabilities-driven businesses -- Boeing Military Aircraft, Network and Space Systems, and Global Services & Support -- a Tanker Programs unit and an advanced technology development organization, Advanced Systems.

Non-Profit Organization Management industry

January 2007 – Present (2 years 7 months)

As an MBA with 7+ years of corporate experience, I founded a non-profit consulting company with a mission to help small corporations, groups, individuals and professionals on various issues, based on my personal/professional experiences and education. My expertise ranges a variety of subjects, but primarily focused on: • professional networking & social media (i.e. LinkedIn, Twitter) and its usage • economic/financial planning & organization • education on savings/investing/debt-management • college/career/life mentoring & coaching • computer/IT use for business & development purposes • strategic management consulting • recruiting • business/risk advisory • start-up and entrepreneurship • fundraiser & lead generation • human capital • intellectual property •

* I do this purely out of passion and excitement of helping others who proactively seek help, advice, consulting & recommendations on above mentioned topics -- both online and offline -- during my own time in the evenings and/or weekends. I'm gainfully employed for a Fortune 50 company. This is done at no-cost with no expectations in return.

- As a Connector, I'm a true believer in "Pay-It-Forward" philosophy.

Lockheed Martin Corporation

Public Company; LMT; Defense & Space industry

June 2003 – June 2006 (3 years 1 month)

About me & my program: Finance Leadership Development Program (FLDP) at Lockheed Martin is designed to prepare high potential employees for future positions in financial leadership. The program is a structured three-year curriculum with a combination of on-the-job experience and formal classroom training. My rotational assignments incorporated aspects of financial planning and analysis, estimating and cost control, cash analysis, program accounting and finance, contracts, auditing, capital planning, strategy, budgeting/overhead, tactical staffing, business management and information technologies. As you can see, the experiential part of the program is comprised of job rotations and special projects, designed to provide a broad set of experiences. Each assignment concluded with a formal performance appraisal to assist with career planning and development. Location worked: King of Prussia, PA.

- Graduated FLDP Program in 2006 with Highest Recommendations.

Those ones who really understand how social networks systems work (I have seen so many individuals trying to get a contact without offering any help, there is a lot...) Well, Steven is the sample of guys who can help you even without knowing you previously and without expecting nothing in exchange for that. It seems to be that he has properly trained himself not only in his area of competence (Finance, Planning, Cost Management & Operations) but Business management and interpersonal communication tools as well. He's the typical "win-win" guy, full of passion, energy and charisma. Again, charisma is his main feature, from my personal perspective. Many networkers should follow this. I highly recommend Steven, my congratulations to Boeing for having "Madre Teresa of Networking" on board and looking forward to partnering with Steven in the future... and help him move mountains :-)" February 25, 2009

The use of the "pay it forward" principle in networking is foundational, and always was so before the activity we call networking came "online" (back in the days when it was only "face-to-face"). Steven's execution of this "pay it forward" principle, along with his volunteer mentoring of those in need, is the essence of networking. Whereas placing one's profile on an enabling system such as LinkedIn is only just the beginning (first step), for a true networker. As a professional coach there is nothing I like better than to watch and observe someone excel, and then to be able to use them as a role model for inspiring others. Truly ... "Steven Burda is unique in that he not only has a solid grasp of many not readily apparent secondary factors involved with social networking, he goes beyond just knowing and decides to acts on such knowledge in a way for maximum effectiveness. The 'secondary factors' such as timing, and selective priority are not readily apparent - as topology, the "Who You Know" or primary profile factor. I cite the following abstract which illustrates the important role of these secondary factors play. <http://www.citeulike.org/user/rcrane/article/2914676> Furthermore, in taking the time to introduce me, a newcomer and one with a low profile and few connections, in a timely and courteous manner; he demonstrates an incredible understanding of the individual human side of the situation. As the matter was an education and collaboration function, an area I am involved in on several levels; his actions showing combined objective and interpersonal elements has a direct impact and is very highly recommended. ===== Followup 4/16/09 Once again Steven Burda demonstrates his unique talent of understanding the big picture and his prompt and courteous response, required for my trip to NAB receives 11/10 (From the movie Spinal Tap). “Steven exemplifies the purest sense of what effective networking, relationship building and professionalism should be. In Good Times and Bad, we all need to work together to help each other succeed. Steven is always willing to support those efforts yet remains discriminating to insure that the support he provides is not petty or bothersome but rather compelling and valuable. Clearly this philosophy is a foundational belief and not a punch line to the way he does business.” February 12, 2009

“I recently connected with Steven via a common group here on Linked in. I can attest to Steven's tremendous networking skills, as evidenced by the extensive number of contacts he has amassed. What differentiates Steven from others with large contact numbers, is the way he manages his network. He is constantly 'touching' his group by providing them with information or contacts that may be of common interest. I have been linked to Steven for less than a month, and already he leveraged his network to put together one of my connections with one of his for a business opportunity. Steven is an excellent example of someone who maximizes LinkedIn to its ultimate potential, and in my mind he provides extensive value as a contact.” January 16, 2009

“Being part of Steven Burda's trusted professional network is a pure benefit. Steven, as he is well known and respected in many professional networking communities around the world, is an exceptional young man. He does things to help others without any expectations in return and in a true "pay-it-forward" philosophy. He's a man of word, a man of honor, and if Steven says he'll do it -- he will. I had a virtual interaction with Steven, and being part of his network only added value to my own experience of being on LinkedIn. He's an asset to me, and I am sure to thousands of consummate professionals that are in his direct and indirect network. I only wish the world had people like Steven are doing things for others! He's genuine; you can trust him and his true intentions. Thank you again, Steven! May you have a great 2009, and I am sure I will see you at the TOP one day very soon.” January 16, 2009

Knowing my colleague well and having worked with him before, I was happy to oblige, and forwarded the request via Steven. You never quite know what the response will be doing this, as sometimes people ignore the requests. Luckily for me, Steven almost immediately passed on the intro, I'm sure having vetted it properly. It is this kind of collaboration that helps us all build networks and I am sure that whilst Steven is very busy with his day to day endeavours, his willingness to take even a couple minutes out of his schedule to help others will help us all achieve mutually beneficial targets in the long run. "Steven Burda is one of the world's most connected people and a true Networking Guru. He has built his Intellectual Human Capital empire over many years of being active on LinkedIn, as well as other online and offline networking. But by being active on LinkedIn doesn't get Steven or anyone else ahead of life – it's the selfless acts of helping others is what separates him from the rest. I personally found Steven Burda to be very useful in getting an introduction out, and Steven took the time to carefully screen it for appropriateness, and pay it forward. I appreciated it, and I thank Steven for that! Much success in your future endeavors, and perhaps we'll be in touch again! "Steven Burda. i had lost track with Steven for some time but the word came that he was now running a Consulting CO, an non-profit company he recently founded.

The words jump for joy came to me as i read e-mail's from so many, The word was out, steven was doing a great job, but then all who know him knew this. It will in time come to all other LinkedIn users, wht it can do for them to know this man, and having a connection withhim does in fact, becomes beneficial. He once said to me, Being gainfully employed and running a non-profit during my "free" time, I realize the importance of staying connected and building meaningful business/personal relationships here on LinkedIn, even if it takes extra time and effort! Well he is right, their is only way Steven and people like him can live, and that is to go the extra mile in Business an personal relationships. One man who does as he writes. Steve is a young person but has wisdom beyond his years that he is openly willing to share his knowledge and experience with others. What is most impressive is hearing his story of coming to the United States at 15 years old (not knowing English) and through hard work and perseverance went through graduate school and worked himself up to where he is today. He is a true American success story! Steve is a great person to know as he knows almost everyone. “Steve and I have not worked at any companies together however we have developed a Networking/Business relationship through the Linked-I networking vehicle in which Steve has proven by example that he is "The Chief of Networking Sites" (Linked-In in particular). Steve has shown that by continually networking with other colleagues and associates "Synergies" definitely can be developed. He is a phenomenal networking associate and has responded to requests in a "more than timely" fashion. As a Networking Recruiter via the Linked-In vehicle, I have seen by Steven's example that developing a large network of people definitely can open opportunities abroad. Sometimes it's not always what you knw but who you know! Thanks Steve for linking up with me! I HIGHLY recommend Steven Burda!” August 27, 2008
