

DR. PATRICIA M. DIX

COXHEALTH, REGIONAL PERINATAL CENTER

About Patricia, Perinatologist

Dr. Patricia Dix specializes in maternal-fetal medicine, with a focus on fetal care and complicated, high-risk pregnancies.

Her responsibilities include treating women with diabetes, birth defects, high blood pressure, rhesus disease and pre-term labor. She also offers gynecologic care for medically uninsured parents.

Since the early age of 14, Patricia knew she wanted to be a physician. Throughout her career, the most gratifying aspect of being a perinatologist has been helping women during childbirth, working closely with them to ensure that the fetus remains healthy and strong. She truly enjoys what she does and believes that maternal-fetal medicine allows for a very special relationship with patients and their families.

Dr. Dix enjoys cooking and traveling in her spare time.
