

HOLIDAY PARTY: EO: GOTHAM CITY FORMAL MASQUERADE BALL

Back by popular demand... the lore of a place like Gotham City has nothing on the CLE! Don't miss this formal black tie event. We will light the city up - EO-style with our Gotham theme. Look for the EO "Bat" signal, lighting up the building and points around the city, live feed broadcast, formal masquerade ball theme. There will be a member ballroom dancing competition and so much more. Let's dress up and roll out the red carpet.

EO: GOTHAM CITY FORMAL MASQUERADE BALL

AND WHAT IS THIS AMAZING PLACE AGAIN?

And what is this amazing place again?

The 925 Building, formerly known as the Huntington Building, originally the Union Trust Building, is a high-rise office building on Euclid Avenue in the Nine-Twelve District of downtown Cleveland, Ohio. When the building was completed in 1924, it was the second largest building in the world in terms of floor space, with more than 30 acres (12 hectares) of floor space. It also included the world's largest bank lobby, which today remains among the largest in the world. The lobby features enormous marble Corinthian columns, barrel vaulted ceilings, and colorful murals by Jules Guerin.

The building features a rooftop ticket lobby and waiting room designed for dirigible flights to New York and Chicago; the roof was never utilized because of the high winds from Lake Erie.
