GENERAL INFORMATION

We acknowledge that this conference is being held within the ancestral homelands of indigenous people who lived here from time immemorial and were displaced during rapid Euro-American colonization in the 19th century. We acknowledge the original inhabitants and traditional village sites of the land we are occupying and express our respect to the many tribes who have ancestral connections to this territory and to all other displaced Indigenous peoples who call Portland home: the Multnomah, Kathlamet, Clackamas, Tumwater, Watlala bands of the Chinook, the Tualatin Kalapuya, Molalla, Wasco, and the many Indigenous nations of the Willamette Valley and Columbia River Plateau. We take this opportunity to thank the original caretakers of this land – and acknowledge them as the past, present, and future. We encourage you to learn about the land you reside on, and to join us in advocating for the inherent sovereignty of Indigenous people.

Registration

All participants must register for the conference and wear their name badges at all times.

Qualitative research seeks to gain a deep understanding of how individuals and groups experience social phenomena within their natural setting, and reveals how meaning is assigned to every day experiences with subsequent impact to health behaviors. This WIN forum provides space to bring together qualitative nursing scholars, students and others who are interested in this approach to knowledge discovery. It will provide opportunities to network, dialog about possible collaborations, discuss best practices to teach qualitative research approaches to graduate students, and explore potential new areas of inquiry.
