

Institute of Higher Education UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA

The Institute of Higher Education at the University of Georgia, pursuant to its mission and values (<https://ihe.uga.edu/mission>), invites applications for an assistant professor position to begin August 1, 2021.

The faculty member will support growing student research interests in critical issues of higher education. The Institute is committed to a multidisciplinary approach, and the successful candidate will be expected to teach graduate-level courses, advise and mentor doctoral students in their studies and research, collaborate well internally and externally, and pursue an active program of research.

Candidates should have a PhD or equivalent terminal degree in a complementary discipline (e.g., Sociology, Public Policy, Economics, Political Science, Law, Education, Management) and an active record of scholarship and research productivity commensurate with rank. The ability to teach advanced methods in our qualitative or quantitative research sequences, as demonstrated by at least one semester of instruction experience or through mastery of method evidenced in research portfolio, is also required.

Preference is for candidates to have a research interest and expertise in one or more of the following:

- Issues of diversity, equity, and inclusion in higher education
- Institutional governance, leadership, and change
- International and comparative higher education
- Community colleges
- Minority-serving institutions
- Higher education law and policy

We are especially interested in candidates who will advance the multidisciplinary character of the Institute, add substantially to the depth of the faculty, and bring innovative perspectives to the study of higher education. The successful candidate also will have:

- Demonstrated commitment to fostering a diverse and inclusive learning environment
- Familiarity, through instruction or research, with current trends and cultural contexts in higher education
- Strong evidence of and potential for attracting external funding

Review of applications will begin April 12, 2021, and continue until the position is filled; candidates who apply by May 1, 2021 will receive full consideration.

To apply, please submit a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, and the names of three references via UGA's online hiring site at <https://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/188811>. Other queries may be directed to Assistant Professor Search Committee at ihe@uga.edu.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status.