RYAN ANNOUNCES OVER $3.1 MILLION IN FUNDING FOR WESTERN NEW YORK LIBRARIES

Nearly $1 Million of Funding Will Go To Crane Branch Library In Elmwood Village

BUFFALO – Friday, October 16th, Chairman of the New York State Assembly Libraries and Education Technology Committee Assemblyman Sean Ryan joined representatives from the Buffalo & Erie County Public Library to announce $3,120,670 in State Aid for Library Construction in Western New York, including $958,712 of which will be used for Phase 2 interior renovations replacing interior finishes, mechanical units, the original 1955 single pane windows as well as the addition of a service entrance vestibule at the Crane Branch of the Buffalo & Erie County Public Library. This aid follows an investment of over $1 million dollars from the 2019 Construction Aid funding for the Crane Branch that will provide ADA compliant restrooms and a new elevator. Phase 1 construction is estimated to begin by late 2020 or early 2021, with Phase 2 construction to follow.

In 2019 Ryan led a bipartisan effort to restore library aid funding to the state budget after initial proposals called for a $20 million dollar reduction. His efforts ensured libraries in Western New York and across New York State will continue to serve as cultural hubs that provide vital services to our communities. The 2020 funding represents the state's continued commitment to updating infrastructure in our public libraries. This funding will be used to repair aging facilities, upgrade computer and broadband technologies, provide meeting spaces to accommodate community needs and to renovate for accessibility to library users with disabilities.

With COVID-19 impacting our country, it's more important now than ever before that our libraries have the capacity to serve people working and learning from home. These funds will help ensure library patrons in communities across the state will have better access to facilities and services provided by our library systems. Buffalo and Erie County Public Libraries in Alden, Amherst, Boston, Buffalo, Eden, and North Collins will receive funds from the latest round of NYS Aid for Library Construction funding.

“This is vital funding that will allow the Crane Branch to continue to serve the Elmwood Village and our community as a whole for decades to come,” said Assembly Committee on Libraries and Education Technology Chairman Sean Ryan. “Libraries have continued to grow and evolve with the development of new technologies. As a result of that growth, we’ve seen libraries across the state trying to fit expanded technology and programming into spaces that were not designed for the needs of today’s patrons. This funding shows our commitment to ensuring libraries can make critical upgrades that will allow them to better serve their community during the COVID-19 crisis and beyond. The aid will help to grow existing programs, increase accessibility and enhance the technological services libraries offer to our communities. Libraries provide an environment for lifelong learning and I’m proud to have worked with my partners in government on both sides of the aisle to make sure this vital funding was included in the state budget.”

York State Assembly Committee on Libraries and Education Technology and to our entire New York State delegation for supporting the efforts of our libraries especially during these challenging times. Our local communities will benefit from these building improvements at the Crane Branch, Alden Ewell Free Library, Main Library at Audubon in Amherst, the Boston Free Library, Eden Library and the Town of North Collins Public Library,” stated Library Director Mary Jean Jakubowski.
